Welcome! Thank you for being a part of this very important first annual event designed specifically for our preceptors and clinical faculty! We are excited to have this opportunity to collaborate with University of Kentucky, Butler University and University of Cincinnati Colleges of Pharmacy to bring you a wonderful seminar today. We hope that you will find this experience enlightening and useful in your everyday practices and preceptor duties.

I would like to personally thank you for coming to join us for this seminar filled with discoveries, renewed friendship and also networking with other colleagues in the region. Today, I hope you will share and learn how our experiences as preceptors can help us educate our future pharmacists.
